County Lawsuit Still Stands

County Lawsuit Still Stands

Moving Forward

Daniel Glover

The Harnett Dispatch

After the theatrical display in the last County Commissioners meeting, with Chairman Burgin moving to dismiss lawsuit against fellow Commissioner House, the Lawsuit moves forward. The move by Burgin to drop the lawsuit did not stand water and the attorney representing the county in the Rogers-House case is moving forward with dispositions scheduled for the end of February. The move by Chairman Burgin was not enough authority to stop the suit without the vote of the board.
